Navicare Honored for its Commitment to Clients and Employees

Growing health IT company receives Stevie Award and recognized as one of Atlanta's top places to work

Atlanta, March 28, 2016 – Navicare, a provider of web-based healthcare claims management and patient payment solutions, today announced the company was recognized by both the Stevie Awards and The Atlanta Journal-Constitution. Navicare received the bronze award in the 2016 Stevie Awards for Sales and Customer Service in the Customer Service Department of the Year competition for the healthcare, pharmaceuticals and related industries. In addition, Navicare was selected as one of The Atlanta Journal-Constitution's "Top Workplaces."

"It is an honor to be recognized by both the Stevie Awards and The Atlanta Journal-Constitution," said Jim Denny, founder and CEO of Navicare. "It is a testament to the hard work and dedication of our employees, particularly our client services team, and our company culture. Our top priorities have always been providing superior client service, with our 3-Ring® Client Service, and creating a workplace where employees can have a true impact on the business and have fun doing it. Navicare's client service is as important as our technology to our clients, and our employees and culture are what make it all work."

The Stevie Award's recognition of Navicare's client services team was based on their dedication to helping healthcare organizations adapt and thrive as they tackled two difficult healthcare industry challenges:

- The transition to ICD-10: Navicare succeeded in both planning and executing the complex transition, and 96 percent of clients had the right technology by October 1, 2015, enabling them to seamlessly submit ICD-10 claims.
- Rising patient payment responsibility: With the launch of Navicare® Payments™, a patient payment solution, Navicare created a dedicated team to help healthcare organizations optimize patient payments by updating processes, leveraging technology and changing longtime attitudes about asking for payments.

This year, the Stevie Awards, one of the world's leading business awards, received more than 2,100 nominations from organizations of all sizes and in virtually every industry across the 59 categories, an increase of 11 percent over 2015. Finalists were determined by the average scores of 115 professionals worldwide, acting as preliminary judges.

Navicare has also been named one of The Atlanta Journal-Constitution's "Top Workplaces" for three consecutive years. In addition, Navicare has posted fifteen consecutive years of revenue and employee growth and has been one of Atlanta's fastest growing health IT companies during that time. The Atlanta Journal-Constitution published the complete list of Top Workplaces on March 27, 2016. The Top Workplaces lists are based solely on the results of an employee feedback survey administered by WorkplaceDynamics, LLC, a leading research firm that specializes in organizational health and workplace improvement.
